Operation Pushcart Comes to End in Harlem's Street, Is Termed Success

NEW YORK (AP) — Not all of Harlem's children could get to antipoverty recreation facilities this summer. So Youth United, a group of young workers organized Operation Pushcart, and took the toys and games to the kids in the street.

The program wound up today, with the children headed back to school and the workers wishing they could keep it going even in the winter months. They figure it served more than 1,000 underprivileged youngsters aged 4 to 14 in the six weeks.

The children entered from their crowded tenement homes each day before 9 a.m. to await project workers pushing black and yellow wheeled barrows stuffed with monopoly sets, water, color and finger paint, balls and basketballing outfits.

After group activities were set up in roped-off blocks, the day's schedule of games usually continued until 4 p.m. Sometimes the groups went to a nearby swimming pool or a park to study nature.

All the workers in the program are Harlem residents. Joseph Greathart, program coordinator, said, "We thought the children would respond more if they were supervised by people from their own neighborhood."

Greathart said, "The program has been a bigger success than we imagined. We only had a short time to set up the project.

Federal antipoverty funds were allocated late, and we had to hire quickly because we were late," he said. Harlem Youth United, the community youth program of HARVU, ACT, Harlem's antipoverty agency, ran Operation Pushcart.

Greathart said he hopes federal antipoverty officials could use the program through the winter. "It's something these kids have come to depend on," he said. "You can't just let them down now after giving them something to hope for."

He said Pushcart was given $40,000 for a 10-week program, but had only operated six weeks.

"We have money to turn back," he said.

Daughter of President Is In Midwest

MENASHA, Wis. (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson, the daughter of President Johnson, arrived unexpectedly here Friday night to spend the Labor Day weekend with the family of Michael Phenner, a social aide at the White House, according to his father, Lewis.

Lynda, 22, and Phenner, 28, arrived at the Phenners' large colonial house on Lake Winnebago about midnight, accompanied by four Secret Service men, the elder Phenner said.

Phenner, who is said to have dated Lynda, was a member of the U.S. Army Judge Advocate Corps and is a graduate of Notre Dame University Law School in South Bend, Ind.

Deacons Meeting Held by Church

KING HILL — A deacons meeting of the King Hill United Methodist Church was held Thursday night at the King Hill Community Church with Mrs. Mildred Carnahan in charge.

Reports were given by Toni Robinson for cards that have been sent to the sick, and Mrs. Karl Anderson gave a report of flowers sent to various departments.

Other matters pertaining to the deacons' work were discussed.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Following the recent change in command, the Central Intelligence Agency got some bad news breaks. They have been ordered to use the power the propaganda machine of the Communist-bloc, which in recent months has been directing an attack on an unprecedented scale in a dozen more languages against the Agency.

At the first time not only the CIA but the "intelligence community" has been branded as compromising an "irrevocable government" dominating American foreign policy. The line was laid down nearly a year ago in a broadcast by Moscow radio to Russian and it has been reiterated incessantly with even greater emphasis in broadcasts referred to "the other government or

This list is a sore point with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who have insisted that the CIA be placed under the supervision of the CIA along with members of the Senate Armed Services Committee. They contend the agency influences foreign policy.

A recent Moscow broadcast in Indonesian translation charged that the CIA was directly involved in "the inciting of reactionary groups to murder patriots, carry out disruptive activities against democratic organizations and to overthrow the government."

Thus, in effect the CIA was credited with the overthrow of the Indonesian Communist Party and the whole massacre that followed. While this was certainly not the intention, it makes the intelligence agency look 10 to 1 to Indonesian men.

Why this rapidly stepped-up attack on the CIA and the intelligence community?

The answer can only be speculative. One reason being advanced is that this may be the response to the disclosure of the CIA's role in the case of Sig- Wennerstrom, the Swedish military attaché in Washington and Moscow who passed on masses of classified information. What has already come out of Wennerstrom's secret trial in Stockholm gives a broader picture of the worldwide operations of the CIA.

A newcomer in the spy business, it may have begun to daunt the Soviets, who rate themselves top in the field.

Honored guests: Mrs. Sylvia White, Mrs. Neida Montgomery and Mrs. John Wodkowski, first grade; Mrs. Frank Ravsten, Mrs. Eleanor Sommer and Mrs. Melburn Winn, second grade; Mrs. Gordon Bair, Mrs. Radamne Stephens and Mrs. Marion Judd, fourth grade; Mrs. Lenz Hupf, Mrs. Renban Ward and Duane Harrison, fifth grade; Mrs. Clifford Stocking, Frank Ravsten and Clark Barlow, sixth grade; Mrs. Clyde Crandall, Eloy Shrent and Mrs. Lamont Smith, seventh grade; and Elmer Moore, Mrs. Edred Bair and Steven Heiner, eighth grade.

Also featured were Susan Smith, chorus; Desmond Welch band; Mrs. Glen-Maughan, librarian; Mrs. Lillian Davis, assistant librarian; Virgil Hoff, men's custodian; Lund Christensen, principal; and Mrs. Q. D. Brown, secretary.

Susan Alexander, first runner up from the Miss Rupert pageant, presented a dance number, and a promenade was presented by students of the DeLore School of Dance, Heyburn. Everett Savage, president, conducted the business meeting and Harlow Cheney gave the prayer. Cub Pack No. 48, Heyburn, LDS Second Ward, presented colors and led the flag pledge. Community singing was conducted by Stevens Heiner and Lund Christensen, assisted by Mrs. Brown.

Mrs. Crandall was presented a free PTA magazine subscription for having raised the most children. Mrs. Wigley's third grade will receive a book for having 71 per cent, the highest percentage of parents present for the meeting.

RATIFIED

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Seven building craft unions have ratified a proposed agreement negotiated by construction contractors and the National Reactor Testing Station, but Atomic Energy Commission officials insisted Saturday construction work will not resume until there is written assurance of long range labor stability at the station.

PROJECT PLANNED

BOISE (AP) — Bureau of Reclamation Regional Director Gordon L. Nelson of Boise has been selected to help plan an irrigation project for the Rufiji Basin of Tanzania, Africa.

Nelson and Rupert B. Spearman are assigned to the Upper Columbia Development Office at Spokane, are to study and report the irrigation potential of the basin at the request of the government of Tanzania.

JORDAN TALKS

RIRIE, Idaho (AP) — Idahoans are feeling the bite of inflation brought on by "unrestrained" federal spending, Sen. B. J. Jordan, R-Idaho, said today. And he said rubber stamp congressmen are to blame.

"People in Idaho who are working more hours, earning more pay, but taking home less money," Jordan said, "now can clearly see that the rubber stamp congressmen who vote for every spending request of the administration have sold them down the river."

BUDGET OKAYED

BOISE (AP) — Directors of the Rocky Mountain Educational Laboratory approved Friday a proposed annual budget of nearly $1.5 million.

Five research projects have top priority in the $1,486,346 budget for the agency financed by federal funds. The agency serves Idaho, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, and portions of Arizona, Nebraska and Kansas.

The 33 educators, ending a two-day meeting in Boise, approved funds for a study of teachers' skills in mathematics, language arts and elementary science, a pre-service teacher education program, educational television, inservice teacher education, individualized instruction research and a study of effective behavior in learning.

PRICES UP

BOISE (AP) — Idaho milk and red meat production fell down in July but average prices Idaho farmers received for all produce was up, the U. S. Agriculture Department said today.

The department's crop report service for Idaho said milk production for July is estimated at 133 million pounds compared with 140 million for July 1965.

COUNCIL FORMED

BOISE (AP) — An advisory council has been formed to bring the resources of the universities and colleges to bear on community problems in Idaho.

The new Idaho Advisory Council on Social and Community Service projects is composed of six men and is headed by David D. Kendrick, dean of the University of Idaho College of Business Administration.

The group will study public service projects proposed by Idaho colleges and universities. It will then recommend some of these to the Idaho Higher Education Facilities Commission for federal financing under Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Hot

WASHINGTON (AP) — The temperature reached a high of 84 in Washington Sunday, the soon day this year that the mercury here has touched the 80 degree mark or higher.

The last time Washington had that many days of 80 or over temperatures was in 1972, the Weather Bureau said.

Army to Destroy 70,000 Wrist Compasses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army plans to destroy 70,000 wrist compasses worth nearly $250,000 because their luminous dials glow off a radioactive gas dangerous in accumulated quantities.

Some 30,000 of the compasses were stored due to an accumulation of radon gases in the hermetically sealed containers.

The instruments, worth $3.50 each when originally purchased, will be shipped to the Army's general's office unit, during one of its periodic depot inspections, the compasses will be removed from issue and eventually destroyed.

The U. S. Army Environmental Hygiene Agency, a surgeon general's office unit, during one of its periodic depot inspections, the compasses will be removed from issue and eventually destroyed.

"As a precautionary measure," the Army said, "instructions were issued in July to remove the compasses from stock for issue to preclude any possible injury."

"There is no record of any potential health hazard existing from their use during the past eight years," it said.

Primitive Area Resident Visits in Salmon

SALMON—Frank Lantz came end of the Salmon River Road, bulls. I'm sure I could have done it but I didn't want to wind up a hospital case," he said. Lantz came up river by jet boat with Joseph Scoble of Salmon, his first trip down the Salmon River was in 1916 with Capt. Harry Guleke, early boatman on the salmon.

Lantz, who lives alone since his wife died some 10 years ago, said the frost last spring got his trout crop and the place is swarming with bears, looking for something to eat. He said he didn't get any sleep for a week recently because of the animals.

Boat traffic in the Primitive Area, he said, has been heavy this summer.

Guilty Plea Clarified in Acid Incident

JEROME—Russell G. Shaud, probate judge of Jerome County, noted Saturday that Steven Klomp, Twin Falls, has entered a plea of guilty to the misdemeanor of aiding in the commission of petit larceny in the butyric acid incident at Twin Falls High School.

Klomp was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to five days in the county jail. The sentence was suspended on the condition that he apologize to Richard Baun, dean of the high school. The Twin Falls student had been charged with petit larceny in the theft of the acid, but investigation indicated Klomp was not involved in the actual act of stealing the acid or spreading it in the building.

For this reason, Judge Shaud said, he was not asked to pay for any of the damages done by the acid. Klomp apparently had added in the act of taking the acid by loaning out a key entrusted to him by Baun.

Two Youths Hospitalized After Mishap

GOODING — Alita Lemke, 16, and Charles Sears, 18, were hospitalized in a two-car collision west of Gooding Friday, which still listed in serious condition Saturday night at the Gooding Memorial Hospital.

Also hospitalized after the accident was Charles Sears, 18, Gooding, who was listed in good condition.

The accident occurred about 4:45 p.m. Friday.

Gooding County Sheriff Vern Roysie said a 1965 Chevrolet, driven by Gary Nordstrom, 25, Gooding, was traveling east on a county road five miles east of Gooding when a 1965 Chevrolet, driven by Lemke, pulled onto the county road, striking the Nordstrom vehicle broadside.

The Lemke car had been traveling north on the old highway between Gooding and Wendell.

Both vehicles tipped over and were demolished. The two drivers, along with Lemke's passenger, Carlene Halverson, 18, Jerome, were taken to the Gooding hospital by ambulance for treatment.

All but Sears and Lemke were released.

WILD COW MILKING will be held each night of the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, with 15 to 20 teams competing for cash prizes. Practicing are Harold Peterson, Filer, the milker, right, and Joe Allison, Filer, the mugger, left. The fair will be held Wednesday through Saturday at the County Fair grounds in Filer.

Red Guards Remaining In Peking

TOKYO (AP) — About 20,000 military Red Guards from various parts of mainland China are remaining in Peking, Japanese dispatches from Peking said Saturday.

The reports said the Red Guards were part of several hundreds of thousands of youths who had been sent to the countryside in Peking last Wednesday.

The provincial Red Guards still in Peking were staying for study and training, the Japanese dispatches said.

In preparation for what observers in Peking believe will soon expand into a unified, official movement, the Red Guards movement.

The reports said that in order to maintain discipline among the youths, Red Guards, they have been organized by their own gendarmes.

At the start of their campaign two weeks ago, the Red Guards resorted to violence against other cities and have reports of resistance and bloodshed. The Peking leadership, then cautioned against the use of force.

One of the leaders of the Red Guards gendarmes, the reports said, is Defense Minister Lin Biao, the Red Guards' Mao-Ze-tung. Lin was wearing a Red Guards gendarme armband at the Peking rally, the reports said.

2 Hurt in Auto-Cycle Mishap Here

Minor injuries were incurred in an automobile-motorcycle collision about 9 p.m. Friday at the intersection of Filer Avenue and Fillmore Street, according to Twin Falls City Police.

Police said a 1964 Dodge driven by Robert O. Whitfield, 16, Kimberly, failed to yield the right-of-way to a westbound 1961 motorcycle on Filer Avenue.

On the cycle were Russell Wilson, 16, the driver, and Vickie Bondell, 15, both of Twin Falls. As the Dodge pulled across Filer Avenue from Fillmore Street, the cycle struck the right front side of the car, throwing both occupants of the cycle to the pavement.

The two were taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital by ambulance. Wilson was treated and released and Misa Rahdahl was released Saturday afternoon.

Whitfield was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Idaho Passing Halfway Point in Interstate Highway Construction

BOISE (AP) — Idaho is passing this year the halfway point in the construction of its 699-mile network of high speed, intersection-free interstate highways.

At the beginning of the year it had 253 miles of freeway in use and by the end of the year it expects to have completed about 338.

An additional 23 miles are under contract and the program calls for awarding of contracts before Dec. 31 for the building of 68 more. Some of these projects will be finished by the fall of 1967 while others will continue two to three years.

The entire network is scheduled to be completed by the end of the year, state highway department officials have said, repeatedly in recent months that the goal cannot be achieved unless the rate of allocating federal funds is stepped up.

The federal government puts up 92 per cent of the cost of the interstate system.

Only one new section of interstate has been opened to traffic in Idaho this year — a four-mile stretch along the north edge of Pocatello.

But scheduled for completion this year are two sections — about six miles of Interstate 15 and about 45 miles of Interstate 20.

The Interstate 15 project is a four-mile stretch north of Pocatello.

The Interstate 20 project is a four-mile stretch between Meridian and Boise, including the first concrete surface to be used on freeway construction in Idaho.

That 4.5-mile stretch and one of 2 miles in the Nampa area are on the Interstate west of Boise. Only a section between Nampa and Caldwell and one carrying the Interstate through Boise's western outskirts into the city remain to be constructed before the entire stretch between Boise and the Oregon border is complete.

Under contract are four projects on Interstate 90, the stretch of freeway crossing the North Idaho Panhandle. The entire

Air Safety Is Stressed For Weekend

During this Labor Day weekend, and continuing through Tuesday, the Federal Aviation Agency has implemented a program designed to bring to the attention of the general public the safety record of general aviation and also study operational problems of general aviation.

The announcement was made here in a joint statement by E. W. Kroll, chairman of the City Commission, and Edwin C. Wood, airport manager. Details of the program were received from Lee E. Warren, acting FAA director at Los Angeles.

Pilots are being urged to consider safety at the number one objective during this period. Airplane managers, fixed base operators and others are being urged, among other things, to be alert to operations "under the influence" and that specific efforts be made to stress weather briefing before any general flights are made.

The safety effort is especially directed toward the uniformed and inexperienced pilots in communities throughout the nation.

"We want to make this the safest general aviation Labor Day weekend on record," the two city officials said.

Public Meet Set Here on Court System

The second in a series of statewide public meetings designed to acquaint Idahoans with the Committee on Courts' preliminary report for a new judicial system will be held in Twin Falls City Hall, starting at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

A study of court modernization plans was ordered by Senate Bill No. 142, 25th Legislature.

The meetings are being held to provide Idahoans with an opportunity to express their comments, criticisms and suggestions on the preliminary report.

All Twin Falls citizens are urged to attend the meeting. To assist in drafting such needed legislation to modernize the Idaho court system, Edward DeLoof, immediate past president of the Idaho Bar Association, commended.

Diagnostic Laboratory to Prescribe Learning Aids

By MIKE ATHAY, Idaho State Journal Staff Writer

BOISE (AP) — Youngsters in Southeast Idaho schools may have their learning problems diagnosed and prescribed for much the same as a physician treats body ailments.

Educators are studying the feasibility of a "mobile diagnostic laboratory" to visit the 48 school districts in this part of the state. The laboratory would be a large bus, equipped with facilities for speech, hearing, psychological and other kinds of testing and staffed with appropriate specialists.

"It would stop at schools on a regular basis to test students identified by teachers as having learning problems."

A federal grant of about $31,000 under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 is financing a year of study to plan the mobile laboratory program.

Harold R. Black, former guidance counselor at Highland High School of Pocatello, is in charge.

Black explained that "we find many students with normal IQ's above 100 have learning difficulties because of physical defects such as hearing or sight impairments."

"Many times the problems of these children go undiagnosed," Black said, "and the teacher sees the student is not doing very well and is a disciplining problem, but does not know how to cope with the problem."

The mobile unit would bring specialists who could determine through tests the precise reason for the child's reluctance.

The program would be concerned with mental and emotional difficulties as well as physical defects, according to Black. Retarded children who are capable of pupils hampered with emotional problems sometimes are not identified by the teacher, but would be discovered by mobile unit specialists.

"The purpose of the project is to enable educators to take the same approach as a physician, and diagnose the child's specific learning difficulties."

Stock Audit Is Completed For County

An inventory audit of state-owned stocks has been completed by the State Tax Commission in Twin Falls County in compliance with the provisions of the new tax law.

The audit was conducted by Clifford Thompson, Twin Falls County assessor.

Complying with the rules and regulations of the State Tax Commission, and in accordance with Idaho law, the true cash value of the investments should be that value as shown on the financial records of the taxpayer on the income and estate tax return where such values reflect taxable inventories at true cash value as shown on the taxpayer's second Monday of January values, Thompson noted.

Book value at the fiscal year ending date must be adjusted for interim sales and purchases, to arrive at the second Monday of January value.

This type of audit will continue within the county, and each inventory has been checked, Thompson added.

Cheryl Couch Will Represent Gem State at National Pageant

By NORMA HERZINGER

The glamorous footlights in Atlantic City await Twin Falls' own Cheryl Couch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Couch, Miss Idaho for 1966. As the competition for the Miss America Pageant nears, anticipation grows, numerous preparations are made and Idaho residents send their best wishes with the lovely young 19-year-old blonde who will represent the Gem State in the national contest. Miss Couch left by car Thursday morning for Boise, where she will meet Rev. and Mrs. Newell Morgan, Rev. Mr. Morgan is incoming state director for the Boise Lions Club and will act as a state official at the pageant, and his wife as chaperone.

Mrs. Helen Henderson, who has been very instrumental in promoting the Miss Idaho Pageants and has had the honor of being chaperone to Atlantic City for two Miss-Idaho winners, Tammy Ashby, Miss Idaho of 1959, and Irene May Ammons, Miss Idaho of 1962, will attend the pageant in Atlantic City as an Idaho state official.

Decisions for the judges of this famed competition will be most difficult as the young lovelies are presented in evening gown competition, swim suits and in a maximum three minute talent routine at which time they are judged for talent or potential talent, along with personality.

Who is Miss America? Well, to quote a Miss America publication, "Miss America is the ideal American girl. She symbolizes the youth of our nation — their dreams, ambitions and ideals. She is

Cheryl Couch Will Represent Gem State

The girl who will represent her country for a year as she travels the length and breadth of her own nation and to many foreign lands, Miss America is selected through a series of competitions at the local, state and national level, where beauty, talent, personality and intellect are the primary requisites.

The Miss America Pageant is a non-profit, civic corporation of the state of New Jersey. It was founded in 1921 with a two-fold purpose of creating good will for the resort and to select the ideal American girl.

A third purpose was added in 1945—to further the education of the nation's youth by awarding scholarship grants. Annually more than $40,000 to scholarships are awarded at the national finals. Many colleges and universities are today supporting the Miss America Pageant scholarship program by offering special scholarships to their schools.

Miss Couch, a petite blonde with green eyes, sang "I Could Have Danced All Night" during the talent portion of the state title June 25. Miss Couch, who will sing for her talent at the national pageant, is five feet three inches and 115 pounds, and is the first Miss-Twin-Falls contestant to win the state honor since Zoe Ann Wadberg won the title in 1952.

Miss Couch comes from a family of five children, with two younger brothers, Jimmy and Bobby, and two younger sisters, Susan and Heidi.

She was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1964 and attended the College of Idaho. Miss Couch is the granddaughter of the late Hugo Olson, who homesteaded in the Fairfield-Manard area of Camas Prairie in 1901, and Mrs. Elva Barrett Olson, who was the first graduating class in the Wendell High School.

Mrs. Olson resides in Twin Falls and will stay with her grandchildren while Mrs. Couch is in town. She will leave Saturday for Pittsburgh, Pa., where they meet parents, five brothers and a sister who will go on to Atlantic City with them.

Miss Couch left Boise at 7:20 a.m. Friday. When she arrives in Atlantic City, a full week's schedule is waiting, including registration, preliminary pageants and the board walk parade. While in Atlantic City, Miss Couch will stay at the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel.

The final night of the competition is set on Sunday, Sept. 11, when all contestants will be required to attend along with the parents, state officials, etc.

Miss Couch is sponsored by the Boise Lions Club and plans to return to Boise Sept. 12.

Women Feted For Recent Publication

HAZELTON—The Women's Organization of the Hazelton Presbyterian Church held an open house and tea in the social rooms of the church in honor of Mrs. Elwyn Wadsworth, who has recently written a book entitled, "Journey Through A Century," and Mrs. Earl Peck, Twin Falls, illustrator for the book.

Background music was played by Mrs. Donald Atkinson and prayer was given by Mrs. Pearl Baines. Vocal selections were presented by the Codas and chorists by Nancy Wilson, accompanied by Janie Wilson.

After the program, Mrs. Wadsworth and Mrs. Peck were introduced. They previewed the book and autographed copies for the guests.

The tea table was covered with lace over yellow and centered with an arrangement of yellow daisies in a crystal bowl. The arrangement was flanked by yellow candles in crystal holders.

REXBURG—Nila Ann Ard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ard, Rexburg, and Donald Thomas Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, and Selmer Thompson, both Buhl, were united in marriage July 22 at Trinity Methodist Church, Idaho Falls.

Rev. John Benefield conducted the double ring ceremony before a background of large baskets of white gladioli and pom poms and candelabra. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length sheath of Chantilly lace, designed with ruffled neckline and a long train flowing from the shoulders. Her veil was held by a lace crown accented with tear drop pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, long white streamers and centered with an orchid corsage.

Maid of honor was Karen Ard, Salt Lake City, Utah, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Steven Swope, Twin Falls, sister of the bride; Pauline Lindsey, Great Falls, Mont.; Susan Howard, Salem, Ore.; and Lyndee Kelsey, Logan, both sorority sisters of the bride.

Best man was Jack Hyder, Twin Falls, accompanied by Mrs. E. A. Bacon, Ellert. Reception speaker was Rev. Allan R. Reesor, First Methodist Church, Twin Falls. Mr. Ted Hicks was in charge of the floral arrangements.

The bride is a graduate of Utah State University where she was president of Tri Delta sorority. She will return to the University in January 1967 where she has an assistantship for her master's degree in education.

The bridegroom attended Utah State University and is serving in the Army Air Service as a helicopter pilot in air rescue.

The couple will reside at Fort Rucker, Ala., where the bridegroom is stationed. Guests attending the receptions were from Utah, Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Montana.

The bride's table, covered with white linen and edged with lace, was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with white crocheted tablecloth, made by Mrs. Frank Sikes, Ellert, over a mint green cloth. Rainbow colored ribbon streamers were draped from the corners of the center of the table. Crystal candelabra, trimmed with miniature orchids with mint green tapers, flanked the wedding cake. Pink and green roses accented the three-tiered wedding cake which was topped with a wedding bell arrangement made by Mrs. George Harvey, Buhl. Serving the wedding cake was Mrs. Betty Bullock, Ellert. Punch and coffee were served by Mrs. Fred Chandler, Buhl, and Mrs. David Marrs, Twin Falls.

Christine Elliott, niece of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book. The bride's bridesmaids were Mrs. Steven Swope, Twin Falls, sister of the bride; Pauline Lindsey, Great Falls, Mont.; Susan Howard, Salem, Ore.; and Lyndee Kelsey, Logan, both sorority sisters of the bride.

Best man was Jack Hyder, Twin Falls, accompanied by Mrs. E. A. Bacon, Ellert. Reception speaker was Rev. Allan R. Reesor, First Methodist Church, Twin Falls. Mr. Ted Hicks was in charge of the floral arrangements.

The bride is a graduate of Utah State University where she was president of Tri Delta sorority. She will return to the University in January 1967 where she has an assistantship for her master's degree in education.

Monte May, Garvin Wed In Temple Rites

Monte May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. May, Twin Falls, became the bride of Jack Garvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Florence Garvin Clauser, Boise, and Dr. Harry Garvin, Colorado, Calif., in a beautiful ceremony performed Aug. 18 at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple.

President Roy Wood performed the ceremony. The couple was honored at a wedding breakfast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Williams, Blackfoot, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Lester Higgins, Pocatello, Mr. and Mrs. Rich Rushton, Bishop and Mrs. Wendell L. Tolman, all great-uncles and aunts of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Farris, Pocatello, cousins of the bride.

The newweds greeted guests that evening at a reception in the Holiday Inn Banquet Room before an offing of white-lattice, draped in garlands of smilax, flanked by arrangements of white chrysanthemums and greenery decorating the pedestals.

The bride wore a slim floor-length, empire-style gown of candlelight ivory peau de soie. Re-embroidered lace shaped the neck bolero and sleeves. A detachable coat-train of candlelight re-embroidered lace framed the wide band of peau de soie. Her veil was a cloud of tulle, held in place by a rose fastened of peau de soie.

She carried a bouquet of gold-anemone roses, beaded with streamers of white veils of ribbon. The bride's headpiece and those of the attendants were designed by the bride's mother.

First attendants were Mrs. Nelson, maid of honor, and Kay Garvin, sister of the bride, groom's. Kay Hanes, California, roommate of the bride, Mrs. Babbell, Nan Larson and Diana Thornock, flower girl, was Donna Bauer.

Best man was Frank Jones, uncle of the bridegroom. Ushers were Shawna May, J. Dee May, brothers of the bride; Douglas Skinner, Clark Johnson, Wayne Bauer, Larry Nelson and Lynn Thornock.

Mrs. Naomi May, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Nelson, attended the guest book table which was covered with white embroidered daisies over coral. The table was decorated with an arrangement of Tropaeolum roses and featured white carnations in a miniature Lenox vase.

Fresh fruit melon balls, cheeses and fruit nut-breads were served with an apricot drink from the bride's to the groom's. Mrs. Claude Brown Jr., Donna Lynn Butler and Carol Dillon, Fresh Tropaeolum roses cascaded down the center of the aisle. A colored cake, which was baked by Mrs. Oba Allen and decorated by Mrs. Lee (Julie) Full, was served.

The cake was centered on the bride's table which was skirted to the floor with an embroidered daisies over coral. Smilax encircled the wedding cake and trailed to the lighted top of the candles. Tallman, moss green and white ribbons were used to carry out the bride's color scheme.

Guests were seated at tables covered with white linens. One long-stemmed Tropaeolum rose was placed in the center of each table across a coral-path ribbon which ran the full length of the cloth.

Serving at the guest tables were Pamela Haney, Bonnie Covington and Irene Campbell. All flowers for the wedding were from Julie's Flowers and Gifts.

Gifts were received by Terri Thornock, Sherri Helder and Connie Rappaport and were arranged on tables covered with coral lace.

Hostesses were Kathy Wells, Kay (Inglow), Joanne Campbell, Mrs. Lynn Butler and Mrs. Wayne Bauer.

Patricia Hargrave presented the bridegroom's cakes, which were wrapped as tiny roses in white parchment paper and tied with silver ribbon, as the guests departed through a gladioli flanked door.

Out-of-town guests attended from California, Oregon, Montana, Utah, Washington, Ashton, Rupert, Shoshone, Murtaugh,

Burley Miss, Powers Are Wed In Chapel Rite

BURLEY — A background of greenery and blue-ribboned setting for the Aug. 13 wedding ceremony at the Burley LDS First Ward Chapel which united the bride, Mrs. Larry Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Janak, and James Ellis Powers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Powers, all Burley.

Bishop Ralph Rasmussen, of the Burley First Ward Church, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked by large vases of blue gladioli.

The wedding music was played by Thomas Church who accompanied Mrs. Larry Powers, soloist. Escorted by her father, the bride wore an original silk-trimmed gown with a sculptured neckline and a sculptured skirt. The fitted bolero and skirt front were accented with embroidered Alencon lace. A pearl studded pillow held her hair.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and blue-tinted carnations enhanced with white streamers. The bride was escorted by her father, James J. Janak, brother of the bride, who was ring bearer.

Jeff Martin was best man and usher, while Thomas Wake and Vernon Rehn, after the wedding ceremony, Oakley, Idaho, Castleford and Boise.

Pre-nuptial showers were hosted for the bride by Diana Thornock, Kay Babbell, Nan Larson, Shari Nelson and Mrs. Wayne Bauer.

The bridegroom's mother will host an open house in honor of the couple in Boise, where the newlyweds will reside. After completing this year at Boise College, the couple will go to the University of Utah, where the bridegroom will study medicine.

County Home Agent Gives Canning Tips

JEROME—Soft jelly that did not come out well the first time can usually be recooked, with acid to make it firm, according to Mrs. Warda Nye, Jerome County home economics agent. "Sometimes recooking without pectin works. It is best to cook only half a dozen cups of jelly at a time.

To recook with powdered pectin, measure the jelly to be done again. For each quart measure one-quarter cup of sugar, one-quarter cup of water and four teaspoons of powdered pectin. Mix the pectin and water and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add the soft jelly and sugar. Stir thoroughly. Bring to a rolling boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Boil for half a minute. Remove jelly from heat, skim, pour into hot containers, and seal.

To recook with liquid pectin, measure for each quart of jelly three-quarters cup of sugar, two tablespoons of lemon juice, and two tablespoons of liquid pectin. Bring jelly to a boil over high heat. Quickly add the sugar, lemon juice and pectin, and bring to a rolling boil. Stir constantly. Boil hard for one minute. Remove jelly from heat, skim, pour into hot containers, and seal.

To recook without added pectin, heat the jelly to boiling and boil several minutes until the temperature is eight degrees above the boiling point of water, or until the jelly mixture sheets off a spoon. Remove, skim, pour into hot containers, and seal.

Women's Club Leader Attends Workshop Meeting

CASTLEFORD—Mrs. Lawrence Sill, co-chairman of the Fourth District Idaho Federated Women's Club, and her daughter, Mrs. James Barron, returned from a three-day conservation workshop session at Flathead Lake, Mont.

Landscape design and beauty were emphasized at the sixth conservation workshop at the Biological Station at Yellow Bay in Flathead Lake. The three-day session got underway Aug. 15 at the off-campus facilities of the University of Montana.

The one-day workshop of the evening hours of the day, a total of 45 women from Montana, Washington, Idaho and California were registered.

The workshop, sponsored jointly by Region No. 1 U.S. Forest Service and the Council, provides an opportunity for women from the various states to meet and discuss common conservation programs and opportunities.

There was time for an examination of legislative, state and national levels. Speakers included Dr. Robert Johnson, acting director of the Biological Station, and J. M. Pragnell and Jerry Coult, landscape architects, Region No. 1, U.S. Forest Service.

Mrs. Sill served on a panel which discussed legislation and beautification projects of Idaho, Montana and Washington, are available for programs.

With colored slides taken of forest fires, both wild and controlled, these slides pointed out the enormous losses caused by range and forest fires and methods of control.

Mrs. Robert J. Hamel, awards chairman, National Council of State and Garden Clubs, spoke on home landscaping for the average gardener.

Mrs. Hamel's talk concerned balance, maintenance and color. Mrs. Lyle Johnson spoke of the pollution programs which Federated Garden Clubs use for projects. Mrs. Johnson is a director of the Rocky Mountain Region, National Council of State-Garden Clubs.

Dr. Leslie Pengetty, University of Montana School of Forestry, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hamel, "Sawtooth" Wildlife Sanctuary, made a joint presentation on the preservation of wildlands. James Bronson, president of the American Forest Products Industries, Inc., addressed the group and told of efforts all over the United States to conserve the forests while harvesting them. Various laws have been passed concerning these practices.

Some of the technical aspects of landscaping roads, recreation areas, building sites and park areas were discussed by R. Pragnell and Jerry Coult, landscape architects, Region No. 1, U.S. Forest Service.

Mrs. Sill served on a panel which discussed legislation and beautification projects of Idaho, Montana and Washington, are available for programs.

Science Still Searching for Eternal Youth

By ALICIA HART

NEW YORK (NEA)—Scientists' giant steps in space research are a marvel of this era. Yet, in spite of such triumphs as men walking in space and equipment landing on the moon, none remains finding the fountain of youth.

And with worship of the young mounting every minute, this is grievous. Or is it?

A Californian who specializes in scientific facial exercises likes to see her students work away their sagging jaws and furrowed brows. Yet Joyce Lee is the first to admit that a blank face is unattractive because it indicates a blank person inside.

Miss Lee, over 50 years old and a perfect, smooth-skinned ad for her courses that attract many of Hollywood's beauties, says she believes in a healthy, natural look. Her exercises, she explains, are to avoid excessive, early aging of the face.

There is no need for most persons to "look old" before their time, she believes, and adds that much facial failure is due to bad habits.

Miss Lee says she finds her exercises and massages techniques, which she teaches in class and also outlines in a book, help the general mental attitude.

"The worst habits that cause unnecessary lines in the face include raising of eyebrows, scowling, blowing, pursing or puffing out lips and cheeks, grinding or clenching the teeth and letting eyelids droop."

"Laughing too high," which means squinting of the eyes, also causes lining and can be eliminated by learning to smile properly.

Miss Lee teaches students to isolate facial muscles that control various areas and mark them with an eyebrow-pencil as a guide. All exercises and massaging is done with the face oriented. Her theory is that if cream is used, a person can't massage in extra lines because the cream keeps the skin pliable and moist.

Simple approaches to halting two bad habits, Miss Lee says are to lead to open the eyes for a minute without blinking and to break the habit of wrinkling it.

"Remember," she points out, "the eyes hold our faces with glands and clothes like our bodies, so why not do something to keep them in shape?"

Federation of Garden Clubs. Miss Hornick summarized the workshop aims and invited women who are interested in these subjects to contact those attending for materials which are available for programs.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM M. REESE

Jeanne Maxey, Reese Repeat Nuptial Vows

Jeanne W. Maxey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Maxey, Spokane, was married to William M. Reese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Reese, Twin Falls, in afternoon rites Aug. 28 at the First Presbyterian Church, Spokane.

The church was decorated with bouquets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and Spider chrysanthemums tied with moss green and ivory-colored ribbons in large urns on tall white columns. Rev. David Dilmony. The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore an empire-styled gown of ivory silk faced peau de soie, designed with a bateau neckline and slight kapuki sleeves edged in Venetian lace. The Aliza skirt extended into a flounce of the same lace at the hemline and small bows and Venetian lace enhanced the free-flowing chapel-length train.

A double tiera of Venetian lace held her shoulder-length veil of ivory imported silk illusion.

She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and roses centered with a white orchid.

Barbara L. Maxey, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Julie Ann Maxey, Mrs. Peter Class and Mrs. C. Richard Wendell.

Robert W. Reese, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were David E. Randolph, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Meridian, Miss.; Allen Willis, Twin Falls; and Andrew Ganow, Boise.

18-Hour Days Is Only Part of Busy Schedule

By RUDY MILLETT

NEW YORK—A woman with three or four young children and no household help works a 16 to 18-hour day according to a physician who has been making a study of the "modern housewife."

Those are long hours—but they are only part of the story. That same woman, very likely, has a few other things to contend with besides her working hours.

Chances are her husband, working only half that many hours a day, expects what she has been told all husbands have a right to expect when they return home in the evening—a calm, relaxed wife, looking part and parcel ready to listen with sympathy and understanding to what a hard day her husband had.

If, instead, he finds a beat looking wife, tired and distracted, too busy trying to get dinner on the table while settling the children's squabbles and answering their questions to give him her undivided attention, he concludes that his wife isn't a very good manager.

As he plops down in an easy chair before the television set, behind the evening paper the last thing in the world he wants to hear is that his wife has had one of "those days," when the washing machine quit working in the middle of a full load, the kids had more than the usual day's share of mishaps, and so on and so on.

That means that the wife who has coped with problems all day long doesn't even get the chance to vent her troubles on her husband at night—the way men so often unload theirs on their wives.

To get any credit at all for the job she is doing she has to manage somehow not to let those long hours wear her down—but to appear to be calm, cool and collected, and as happy as a lark when her husband's work day is over (even though hers still has hours to go) and to be willing to listen to what a hard day he has had and make all the appropriate responses like: "You poor darling. You do look tired."

The family includes Gilbert Bruner, Wendell Lloyd Bruner, Oakridge, Ore., Elmer Bruner, Jerome, Mrs. Claude (Margaret) Spodery, Wendell, Mrs. Art (Marie) Perry, John Day, Ore., Carl (Elmer) Edmund, Mel (Edith) Shepard, Challis, Idaho; Mrs. Willard (Becky) Simpson, Knoxville, Ill., and Mrs. Robert (Dorothy) Wilson, Cascade Locks, Ore.

A family picnic, honoring Mrs. Dixon on her 81st birthday anniversary, was held at the Wendell City Park. Members of the immediate family, grandchildren and in-laws numbered more than 50 persons.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Dixon, Carol and Lula Harer, Springfield, Ore.

MORESELY LOOKING OVER the damage caused by the big range fire on Forest Service land south of Twin Falls last week is George Fry, district ranger, Sawtooth National Forest. The fire destroyed 30 acres of timber and about 17,000 acres of other Forest Service land. Fry is standing near a burned quaking aspen tree with destroyed lodgepole trees in the background. Assessing Damage, Rehabilitation Are Big Jobs Now That Range Fire Is Out

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of damage was done by the range fire that burned out of control for five days, ended about a week ago with the help of winds and lightning. When a raging fire swept over grazing and timber land south of Twin Falls, it killed in the fire area where the fire started. He said the cattle were trapped by the blaze. He valued the cattle at about $10,000.

The fire, caused by lightning on Aug. 25, was aided by high winds the next three days, causing it to move rapidly across thousands of acres of land, destroying everything in its path, including livestock.

Forest Service Bureau of Land Management and private owners of land the fire traveled over, now are faced with the job of rebuilding the area to its original state.

Rehabilitation plans now are under way, but will be several days before exact details are worked out. A meeting is slated within the next few days with all concerned to decide on what steps will be taken.

The blaze started near the Idaho-Nevada border and swept northwest, covering an estimated 74,500 acres of BLM, Sawtooth National Forest and private land before being put out five days after it started.

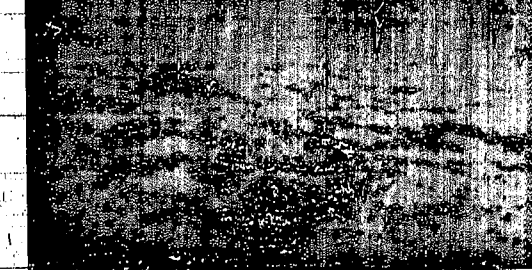

The number of acres of BLM land burned is estimated at 19,800; Forest Service land, 17,300; state land, 2,000; and private land, 31,400. These figures might be high, Forest Service officials state, but they are as close as they can figure at this time.

Because of the high winds which swept the blaze rapidly across the area, there were hundreds of acres not burned within the fire line. Many times the fire jumped canyons and gulches, burning the area jumped.

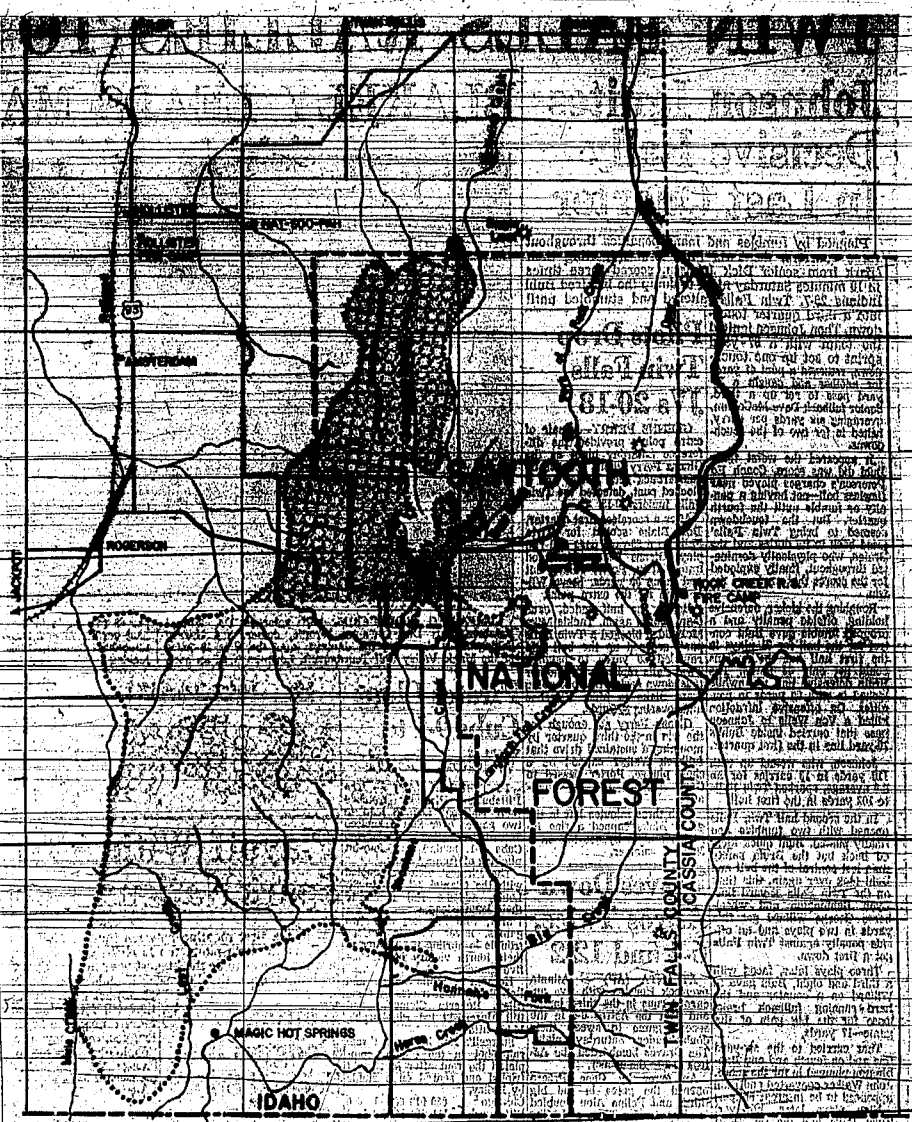

"About 80 to 85 per cent of the area was burned," P. Max Rees, supervisor of the Sawtooth National Forest, estimated.

"Thousands of dollars were spent in fighting the fire. It is estimated that the overall cost of fire will be about $250,000."

However, it will be several days before the extent of the damage, in acres and in dollars and cents, will be known. BLM officials say private landowners still are surveying their damaged areas noting the number of dead livestock killed by the blaze.

SCENE OF DESOLATION shown here is typical of what is left after a range or forest fire passes. The fire moves so fast sometimes that it just bypasses or skips over some spots. Here several trees not damaged by the fire stand right beside burned ones. Some of the bushes and brush still had undamaged tops. Sawtooth Forest Supervisor P. Max Rees estimates there was about 85 per cent devastation in the burned-over area. (Times-News photo) land. Cost of the lightning-caused fire is estimated at $250,000. Rehabilitation plans are now under way and reseeding of the area is expected to start soon. About 330 acres of timber were also destroyed. (Forest Service map)

Rewiring Is Completed at Fairgrounds

FILER — The bright lights of the Twin Falls County Fair Sept. 7-10 will shine even brighter this year.

The new rewiring has increased the distribution voltage from 2,300/4,000 to 7,200/12,300 and transformer capacity has been increased from 400 KVA to 800 KVA, according to company personnel.

Exhibitors will not be restricted to the same amount of power at their booths but will experience less fluctuation in the voltage with heavy loads.

Lighting arrester protectors have been installed along the fairgrounds. The fairgrounds has been put on a separate circuit from the rest of the town during the four-day fair. Power company officials stated the grounds for the Golden Anniversary celebration, power company officials stated they were pleased to the capacity improved since it is representative of the growth taking place in the area.

The Idaho Power Company also is observing its 50th anniversary this year.

Completing Training Hagerman-A-3 Gary Hall

FILER — Gary Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hall, is home on a 30-day furlough from the air force.

Upon completion of technical training at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo. He will report to Davis, Monahan, Army, Tucson, Ariz., where he will be a weapons mechanic.

He is a member of the Twin Falls Junior Livestock Show and Sale which will be held Sept. 24 at the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Co. Instead of Sept. 20, which was incorrectly stated in the Farm and Ranch section of Friday's Times-News.

Jon Taylor Electrical Service and Idaho Power company workmen have spent several days putting in new poles, lines and transformers in the midway and grandstand areas. MRS. CHARLES L. BOOTH, a pioneer resident of Twin Falls, who now resides in Spokane, Wash., has started watercolor and pastel painting. The art of creating, however, really was not new to her because she was a pen and ink artist before the turn of the century. At 87 she is making a name for herself in art circles on the coast. She won three awards at the Interstate Fair in Spokane last fall on pictures her daughter entered without her knowledge.

Feeling Sorry for Mister? Forget It! He's Enjoying Army in Viet Nam

Just in case you're feeling sorry for Mister, a German Shepherd dog now serving with the armed forces in Viet Nam, forget it.

On the maturity of his constant companion, the private first class, "They take better care of the dog than us." The story of Mister started not too many months ago, in January, 1965, to be exact, and involves Jan B. (Chips) Barlow, members of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity at the University of Colorado and the University of Colorado.

Barlow is a 1963 graduate of Twin Falls High School and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Barlow, who reside north of the city.

Mister was purchased by young Barlow in the first month of 1965, when this story actually got its beginning. He took the animal to the university with him and he moved with the fraternity members, soon becoming a pet of all the men.

But then a cloud appeared on the horizon. University officials decided that animals could not be kept on campus. This ruling was made during February of this year. As a result Barlow had to look around for a new home for his pet.

After long and contemplated looking the decision was made. Mister was to join the Army. It is not clear just what Mister thought about this, but he went, nevertheless.

The big event—the day of enlistment—came in May. Just a little over three months ago, this week Barlow sent home a letter to his folks proving by that Mister is a good soldier and also revealing that he is now among those serving in Viet Nam.

The letter came to the former owner of Mister from Pfc. Robert Leonardo, with the 272nd Military Police Co., Detachment T, serving in the Phan Rang sub area command in Viet Nam. Mister, the German Shepherd, and Pfc. Leonardo, the military best friend.

"You don't know who I am," he wrote one of the most aggressive dogs we had in the class. Before we came to where we are now, I was in Long Binh that's about 20 miles northwest of Saigon.

"We worked together there and the security officer was very proud of us and he told our company commander about us. That is how we got transferred to Phan Rang, where we are now.

"He asked me and my partner if we would come here because they were having a lot of rations stolen, so we said we would.

"Mister will be in Viet Nam the rest of his days. But don't worry because the Army takes about 85 pounds.

HIS NAME IS MISTER and he is a member of the United States Army fighting in Viet Nam. Mister volunteered his services in May of this year while a "student" at the University of Colorado. Actually he was the pet of Jan B. (Chips) Barlow and lived in the Phi Delta Theta fraternity house there but when university officials ruled that animals could not be kept on campus, Barlow offered the German Shepherd to the Armed services. He is now "on duty" with the troops in Phan Rang. Barlow is a graduate of the Twin Falls High School and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Barlow who reside north of the city.

Widow of Pioneer T.F. Merchant Recognized as Outstanding Artist

The widow of a pioneer Twin Falls merchant who founded the Idaho Department Store, is making a name for herself in art circles of the Pacific Northwest.

Many people seem to make a name for themselves in art, so this fact is not unusual. The unusual thing is that the woman is 86-years-old and only took up watercolor painting about two years ago and pastel painting one year ago.

She is Charles L. Booth. Her first "dip" into the world of art came as a pen and ink artist back before the turn of the century. She took up painting in the new media only recently.

Even at that, it was through the efforts of her daughter, Mrs. M. C. Kruger, spouse, that her talent was recognized once more. The daughter entered some of her mother's paintings in the Spokane Interstate Fair last fall and the result was three first place ribbons.

Mrs. Booth, visiting in California at the time, was informed by telephone of her accomplishment.

Said Mrs. Kruger, "I could almost hear mother faint when I told her."

The former Twin Falls resident was recently the subject of an article in the Chronicle column of the Spokane Daily Chronicle. The columnist is Harriet J. Connor.

In the column dedicated to Mrs. Booth, the writer said: "Mrs. Charles L. Booth started watercolor painting when she was 85. A year ago she worked with pastels for the first time."

"Mrs. Booth, who will be 88 in July, finds pastels much easier to do, but she still continues with her watercolors."

"How did she happen to take up painting?"

"I have nothing else to do," she countered.

"Has she had any instruction?"

"I use the trial and error method," she explained.

"Art has long been important to Mrs. Booth, who after long years, has returned to it in a different media."

"Before the year 1898," she said, she studied pen and ink drawing, then extremely popular at a commercial art school in Des Moines, Iowa. Most of her work was in India ink. Then she took up oil painting.

"I was engaged to be married and I wanted some pictures to decorate the living room of the home of Mrs. Booth and her daughter (Mrs. Kruger) at E503

PEN AND INK drawing done by Mrs. Charles L. Booth in 1898 showed the fashions and one of the main outdoor sports (ice skating) of the period. This sketch was completed before her marriage. She was then Mabel Bulles.

Hunters Kill More Mourning Doves Than Ducks; Idaho Census Rises

By JIM HUMBIRD

Idaho Fish and Game Department.

BOISE—One of the best loved game birds in North America is the mourning dove species. It ranks high both with bird watchers and hunters from Canada to Mexico and ocean to ocean.

Since doves are found in all states but Alaska and Hawaii, and since they migrate freely across state and national boundaries, these birds are managed through migratory bird treaties with Canada and Mexico. Responsibility for this work is placed with the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The main goal of mourning dove management is to hold a population that will sustain hunting each year in at least three-fifths of the American states, as well as Canada and Mexico, and that will give traditional opportunities for enjoyment of the resource by nonhunters.

The work is sound. Mourning doves are prospering and even extending their range on this continent in an age when many bird and animal species are being limited by land use practices that destroy wildlife habitat.

For these reasons, now is a good time to get main facts for management work in years to come. It is a time of plenty for mourning doves, and it is good for research before a crisis develops.

However, predictions are that bird numbers will continue to rise because there are more farms, more nesting places, more water and feed such as weeds and cereal grains.

At the top of the research goal is to find the relationship between dove production and hunter kill areas, and to learn more of the migratory routes and mortality rates through the land. One objective is to learn the effect of hunter kills on the dove population level.

One of the things that must be planned down, or documented with extensive census and harvest figures, is just how many doves are in a state when the shooting starts.

It has been known for a long time that the mourning doves are their trek to the south in August. By opening day of the hunting season in the northern portion of the Western Dove Management Unit, most birds have gone and are not on hand for shotguns.

If this is proved by the facts found in a three-year study that will be launched in Western states next July, the findings may lead to a change in the International Migratory Game Bird Treaty Act.

States in the north say that most doves move out before dove season.

SURROUNDED by Scotch plaid and the tartan of her Lindsay clan, Mrs. Janet Brown-Ketchum, receives best wishes from friends on her 58th birthday anniversary. Her apartment at Bald Mountain Hot Springs, known as "Brigadoon," takes the visitor on an imaginary trip to the Heather Hills and there is a Bonnie Blair Bush near the steps. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Many friends of Mrs. Janet Brown stopped in at her apartment at Bald Mountain Hot Springs, Idaho, to wish her a happy birthday. As she has been known for many years, celebrated the 58th year of her birthday date with her usual grace. She was garbed in the tartan of the Lindsay clan, of which she is a member. With a twinkle in her eye, she told her guests she now has the experience of New York and Illinois wearing the tartan of their clans.

Mrs. Brown received many lovely gifts, among them, flowers and cakes. "And a big plum pudding," she laughed.

Mrs. Brown says she would not wish to return to the land of her birth.

"America has been kind to me and mine, and all my kith and kin back there agree. I am the last of the clan," she said.

But in reminiscing she

Hunters Kill More Mourning Doves Than Ducks; Idaho Population Rises

The framework, based on international treaties, is established each year by the federal Fish and Wildlife Service, and Northern States set their dove seasons for the first two or three weeks of that time.

Idaho's dove season also, as many days as the federal framework allows, because the birds stay there all winter. Some states split their seasons into two or three segments.

Winged studies to learn the ages of banded birds when they were taken by hunters give clues to what part of the young dove production for the year migrated out of the state prior to Sept. 1.

Some 75 per cent of young doves shot in southwestern Idaho in early September are less than a year old. This could mean that June and most July birds move out before the September season opening.

"It may mean, too, that just this late July and early August doves are available to northern hunters in early September."

Much work along these lines has been done by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and other northern states. Bands from birds banded in June and early July—and shot early in September—did not show up in the returns; while bands from a good many that were banded in August fell before the gun in the first week or two of September.

All this adds up to lots of work. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service does not show up either funds or staff to do it all. So help is cooperative from state fish and game department workers, college and university staffs, numbers and students, wildlife groups and private citizens.

Data collected by these agencies are organized, stored, and tabulated in the hands of a few people in the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The idea is much the same as that behind the waterfowl flyway system.

Dove management work through the United States is opening weekend for partridge, quail, sage grouse and forest grouse shooting. Hunters use doves to sharpen eye-hand coordination, and to toughen the muscles of their bird dogs.

Shellfish Are Popular in New Zealand

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—August and September are "high months of the broken fingernails" in New Zealand. Thousands of country staid New Zealanders drive some times, hundreds of miles to wintry, windswept beaches in search of a tasty shellfish.

Tollerons, which feed on plankton, are found on only a few west coast beaches.

The limit is 20 per person per trip, but not more than 100 per person. It has many passacars in June, and only in August and September. The hives must be at least three inches long.

Once Tollerons must be dug with spades, but they were so easily damaged and scarce that only pieces of bread three inches wide were allowed. The Tollerons numbers still fell and the number went out; use only bare hands.

Is the Tollerons worth all that trouble? The sight of 5,000 cars, arriving 25,000 gathered at Muriwai Beach on a Sunday seems answer enough.

Aircraft Owners Asked To Aid in State Survey

Special survey questionnaires being received in Twin Falls this week after having been sent to all aircraft owners in Idaho by the State Department of aeronautics.

The object of the questionnaire, according to Chet Moulton, director, is to learn first-hand what airports, service features, new ideas and related topics are pertinent to increased ownership and utility of aircraft in the Gem State.

The director, in a communication, to the Times-News said that current production trends in aircraft manufacture could not move airplanes in use during the five-year period ending with 1970 than produced in all the past history.

"This fact," the director said, "could cause many facilities to be in-service—abilities—unless being received in Twin Falls this week after having been sent to all aircraft owners in Idaho by the State Department of aeronautics."

Flying industry and business men have altered many concepts of aviation, he said, and now classify aircraft as a tool to modern ways of doing business. Idaho has only 15 communities with more than 5,000 population as it is a common factor to find few, if any, small communities offering the air-viator a taxi, rental car, or other means of visiting business appointments.

"It is time," Moulton said, "to seek and learn from the owners of aircraft, just what features are most important to increased utility of the aircraft."

Gen. State is to keep pace with "fast-accelerating growth."

Inmates of Texas Prison Are Provided Their Own Rooms

SEAGOVILLE, Texas (AP)—Here is a federal prison where each inmate has his own room, and a key to it. Nobody calls it a cell.

If an inmate seems ready for it, he can work by day at a job in town, and spend his nights back in his room.

This is the Seagoville Federal Correction Institution, with a 20-year record of experimenting in how to change convicts into good citizens.

One of the latest experiments being tried here and at other federal prisons is the work-by-day and prison-by-night scheme. It is paying off, penal authorities say. Most inmates with any desire at all to be chosen for the project, called Work Release, dates back to a message from the Johnson administration in March 1965.

The President declared: "We cannot tolerate an endless, self-perpetuating cycle of crime, imprisonment, and re-imprisonment, which fails to alter undesirable attitudes and behavior."

We must find ways to help the first offender avoid a continuing career of crime."

Johnson's appeal was in line with the thinking of many law-enforcement officials. The old-fashioned prison, where men were panned behind bars for punishment, has been a failure. Instead, these officials contend, is a system that rehabilitates and prepares prisoners for a change into worthwhile lives.

Myrl E. Alexander, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, sees enormous significance in the program. "It is a program of education, vocational training, counseling and guidance," Alexander, looking ahead, said.

"It can be predicted that large, multipurpose prisons and reformatories will give way to smaller, special-purpose institutions where inmates who can be expected to benefit from the program and its participants in relatively short-term intensive programs of correction before moving out to the community, will be housed. Guards are called correction officers, and the inmates are called inmates."

"We deliberately set out to create a climate that was conducive to change," Davis said.

Following President Johnson's 1965 message, Congress passed the Prisoners' Rehabilitation Act. It set up: (1) the machinery for Work Release; (2) an arrangement to grant unescorted furloughs for prisoners under emergency circumstances such as a death in the family; and (3) authority to control prisoners' movement to and from the community.

The process will eliminate for many offenders the old dichotomy of being behind bars today and free in the community tomorrow.

ALTHOUGH NOT ON THE impressive side, this, nevertheless, was the first control tower to operate at the Twin Falls Municipal Airport. Three days of tower operation were necessary because of intense traffic caused by the range-forest fire in the area. The tower permitted direct contact between ground personnel and pilots. Operating the hastily gathered equipment are, from left, Edwin C. Woods, airport manager; Clark Couch, chief of the Boise tower, and Kenneth Olson, controller of the Boise tower. (Times-News photo)

Local Airport's First Control Tower Operated During Forest-Range Fire

For a few hours, air traffic controllers converged on the same landing spot at the same time. The intense traffic situation occurred as pilots aided ground workers in fighting the big range-forest fire which raged south of Twin Falls and east of Rogerson.

At one time there were five passenger liners, three four-engine bombers and seven or eight converted torpedo bombers operating from Jostin Field, to say nothing of scores of smaller craft.

The passenger planes brought in firefighters and equipment from as far away as California. The bombers and torpedo bombers dropped retardant in various locations.

At present, the local field is the only major field in the state without control tower operations. Although pilots using the field here fly planes equipped with radio, there is no one to talk to and they must make up their own minds as to the direction of their landing and the presence of other aircraft in the vicinity.

Normal traffic in Twin Falls rates it as the second busiest in the state, topped only by Boise.

But when the fire broke out, the control tower became a

"All the dog handlers in our company are Military Police and most worked in missile sites in the States before coming over here. However, I came over right after completing Military Police school."

"I came from Providence, R.I., not that it makes any difference. Well, that's all I have to say. If you want to write, I'd appreciate knowing why you had to let Mister go. Thank you. Yours truly, Robert Leonardo."

Leonardo's wife, Florence, will know why Mister joined the Army, why Leonardo had to let him go and also the fact that his fine letter was a highlight of the Times-News Sunday Edition. A copy of this edition has been mailed to Mr. Leonardo in Viet Nam. Perhaps even Mister will know that the picture is of him and that he has not been forgotten by his former master and the boys at the Phi Delta Theta house at the University of Colorado.

Operators from Boise, and Burley, were dispatched to Twin Falls and radio equipment was placed on a wooden platform erected on top of the administration building.

The operators were forced to sit outside in the wind and sun, but the communication worked and order was established out of what could have ended up as chaos.

"Most of our pilots wish we had a permanent control tower," Edwin C. Woods, airport manager, said. "We really deserve one with the traffic we have here."

Another complicated situation was detailed by Kenneth Hepler, chief pilot for Reader Flying Service, operator at the field.

"Coming into the local field from a cross-country flight it is necessary to talk with the Burley field facilities to find out the direction and velocity of the wind in Twin Falls," he pointed out.

Are you paying someone else's overhead?

If your company has a health-care plan and your staff is...

- completing claims forms
- verifying coverage
- paying claims
- conducting extensive correspondence
- conferring with the policyholder (on company time)

...you could be paying as much as $1,500 a month in salaries alone to administer your company's health-care coverage.

Maybe this is why your costs seem low — you're paying in personnel, office space and equipment more than you're saving in rates.

With Blue Cross of Idaho, all this overhead is removed. A staff of experts handles all administration. From the time your employee presents his Blue Cross identification card to the hospital, all details from verification of coverage to payment for services, are handled by Blue Cross direct with the providers of the service.

This reduces your overhead — frees your people to do your work. — Just one reason why — dollar-for-dollar — Blue Cross of Idaho coverage is the most complete, realistic and economical buy in the health-care field.

Take an analytical look at your health-care coverage and see what it really costs you! Then talk to a professional from Blue Cross.

*$1,500 a supervisor and three girls. Small firms need less. But even if it requires parttime of one person, that time should be spent on your business — not insurance work.

When you need Blue Cross, nothing less will do.

"It's A Woman's World..."

The second annual special edition devoted to women's organizations in the Magic Valley will appear in the Times-News October 19.

Containing over 200 individual stories, the edition will include pictures of presidents of many of the local clubs as well as illustrations of activities and projects carried out by different women's groups.

The stories range from minute neighborhood clubs with only a few members to large organizations with memberships of 200 or more. They include social and civic clubs, fraternal orders and lodges, patriotic clubs, auxiliaries of all kinds, home demonstration groups, sororities, church organizations, book clubs and other groups portraying women in every phase of life in Magic Valley.

Also included in the edition are stories from communities throughout Magic Valley, as well as every Twin Falls women's group. Women's clubs in Wendell, Gooding, Filer, Buhl, Kimberly, Hansen, Carey, Richfield, Shoshone, Jerome, Burley, Rupert and Eden are described with stories and pictures.

It will be truly a memorable edition . . . of interest to all women everywhere. Watch for it . . . October 19.

Alaskans Are Trained by Seattle Class

Like the others, she is getting a helping hand from Uncle Sam. The federal government will provide Alaska natives and Indians with funds and training to keep them off welfare rolls. The federal government will give even units of a motel, was established to ease the transition from village to city life for the natives. "I was in a bus that never ridden a bus, used a telephone, shopped in a supermarket, made a budget or even a check," she says. "I received a $75 a week for single persons and a little more for families—and I had to do their own housekeeping. The bureau pays their rent."

Mrs. Minnie Owens, a transplantee Texan who heads the center, periodically gives the natives a quiz which requires them to take buses to designated locations; shop for specific items and answer questions about Alaska. She visits for libraries and other institutions. At-group counseling sessions, in the diets of the headquarters staff, and in the field, they encounter—are thrashed out. After they finish here—the Alaskans go on to vocational training and then to other parts of the United States.

Magoya will stand 326 feet when completed in August 1967. It will be the tallest skyscraper building in north America.

With skyscrapers springing up everywhere, some Japanese engineers are predicting that Tokyo, however, Kiyoshi Motu, a specialist in make-proof buildings and a professor emeritus at Tohoku University, says:

"He explains: 'We use "soft structure" in designing skyscrapers today, not the old-fashioned "rigid structure" with heavy pillars and thick walls and floors.'"

"Today's architecture faces 'upris' thin, high-quality steel columns and beams, made of aluminum or special metals, for example. A skyscraper can sway to and fro. It can stand up and shake like a ship in rough seas, moving with its own rhythm."

Such "soft structure" buildings, however, require special foundations.

"Actually it would take centuries if you worked with paper and pencil, but electronic computers can do it in a matter of a few months," says Motu.

City planners say the merits of skyscrapers for overcrowded cities are obvious. They emphasized, The planners will use the increased amount of open space for gardens, parks, roads and parking lots. "Tokyo can be made to look like a real capital, a true metropolis," said one enthusiastic architect. "Not everyone is happy about skyscrapers, however. Firemen fear fires high up. They want special elevators that function even in power failure, more fireproof corridors, shutters, evacuation areas halfway up and steel furniture. Postal and communication officials aren't too pleased, either. Nor are TV stations using communication—microwaves that now crisscross Tokyo at a height barely over 100 feet.

But Yoshiharu Nagumo, chief of Tokyo's building-supervising section, sets his hopes high. To him Tokyo wasted "two golden opportunities for city planning," after the great earthquake in 1923 and then in 1945 when the U.S. B-29 fire-bomb raids left Tokyo a carpet of burnt ruins.

"Now, we have a third chance," he says. "We have the knowhow, the concepts and finally the laws to permit building a truly great world city here in Tokyo."

A large, ornate vintage television set with a wooden cabinet and a decorative screen. The screen displays a landscape scene. The cabinet features drawers at the base and a decorative panel on the left side. The set is shown on a wooden floor.

- (1) Rectangular shape means you see more picture detail at edges and corners.
- (2) Rare-earth phosphors used in the tube's manufacture increases color brightness, imparting vivid new realism to every colorcast.
- (3) Shorter tube neck reduces overall cabinet depth—now you can have Color TV that takes up little more space than black-and-white TV.

The Green Thumb

by GEORGE ABRAHAM

MORNING GLORIES: Did you know you can grow morning glories indoors and get seeds of blooms from them? If you sow seed now in a pot of soil, you will have a plant with blossoms within two months. You'll need a wooden trellis or strings to support the vines in a south window where they'll bloom profusely against a background of snow outdoors.

Morning glory—need has a tough coat on it and you'll get quick germination if you soak seed first in warm water for 24 hours, or nick the tough coat with a file, just enough to show the seed inside.

MADONNA LILIES: Did you know that summer? If they did, it doesn't mean you must discard them. They probably had botrytis blight, a destructive fungus disease which kills the buds and blossoms, causes foliage to dry up.

Here's what we suggest you do: (1) Dig up the bulbs immediately, separate them and dust with captan or zineb and (2) plant them in a pot of soil.

Another problem with oak-borers: If you keep the trunks of your oak trees sprayed with DDT or captan, borers won't get in. If borers are present, squirt some borax-powder (garden centers handle it) into the openings and seal off with putty.

Question of the week: D.C. of Twin Falls: "We want to save our plants, or take cuttings from them. Please tell us if there is any trick to starting new plants from these slips. Does it make any difference where you cut them?"

Probably the most common method for starting new plants is by cuttings from the parent plant. This is because they come true and resemble their parents. Cuttings—or "slips"—can be taken of coleus, fuchsia, begonia, impatiens, yucca and geranium.

It's a simple job. Just take a sharp knife and cut slips from the parent plant. Most cuttings are 4 to 6 inches long. Usually, it makes no difference where you make the cut, at the stem, through or just below a joint. Remove a few of the lower leaves from each cutting to prevent wilting, but the cutting should not be heavily defoliated.

Next, insert the cuttings into a pot of clean sand, or a mixture of sand and peat, or you can use vermiculite, perlite, or plain tap water. Many home gardeners use a double bottom propagator. That is, one pot set inside a larger one, and sand is placed between the two pots.

Place the cuttings in the sand and water immediately and thoroughly to prevent wilting. It's a good idea to shade the cuttings for the first three or four days. A moist atmosphere is helpful, so never let the cuttings dry out. As soon as roots form, pot the cuttings in a mixture of 1/2 sand, 1/2 peat and 1/2 loam.

F. R. of Fairfield: "Our garden has been poor this year. A friend told me that it was because the rows in our garden did not run the right direction. Do plants and roots grow toward north and south poles as I've been told?"

Some tests show that roots do grow mostly in a north-south direction. In other words, growth of roots respond to the earth's magnetism, according to some researchers. Difference in growth—and production—claim, is caused by direction of the rows or by the direction in which the embryo in the seed points.

Many weekend gardeners say pool pools to this and are convinced from their own observations that rows running east and west give them better results than rows running north and south. If you have a poor garden, I don't believe it's due to the direction of the rows. Probably it's poor drainage, insects, weather or some other cultural factor.

I put an apple in with the pineapple and enclosed the whole thing with a plastic sheet. After four days I removed the plastic sheet and apple. Within a few days I noticed that new leaves were coming from the center of the plant and finally two rows of pineapple fruit appeared on the bottom of the new leaves. The blossoms appeared first, being lavender and from there came the fruit. The fruit was golden yellow and grew about six inches above the old plant on a stalk about 1/2 inch thick.

A PROFITABLE HOBBY: Anyone who has a lot of idle land might look into the possibility of raising walnut trees for profit. Walnut trees are becoming a scarcity and it might behoove farmers and gardeners to plant otherwise unproductive land in walnut trees so there will be a supply for the future. Your grandchildren could benefit from it, if you don't.

One "walnut king" I know has a lot of land in the possibility of raising walnut trees for profit. Walnut trees are becoming a scarcity and it might behoove farmers and gardeners to plant otherwise unproductive land in walnut trees so there will be a supply for the future. Your grandchildren could benefit from it, if you don't.

Diehards Still Try to Breath Life Into Ashes of Dominican Revolution

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Diehards are still fanning the ashes of revolution in this Dominican capital.

They are trying to breathe life into it with verbal stimulants and an occasional jolt of violence. The group turned up the old Castroite litany: "Out gringos," and "Death to Yankee imperialism," and at the counterpoint, the strident, anti-Communist chant of a clique of Dominican leftists called "Juan Bichismo" (John Birchism).

Humor drives in this atmosphere and there is this perhaps why Santo Domingo—the interior, where the violence, especially, is alive with talk of military plots to overthrow the new government.

Students in Dominican politics discount any immediate threat. They do foresee violence, especially after the Inter-American Peace Force leaves this month. There is some apprehension about the disappearance of restraints imposed by the foreign troops which will unleash a wave of political reprisals among those involved in the bloody April 24, 1965, fracture.

Part of Santo Domingo is known to be heavily armed. It is described by the leftists as the past month one top political figure was slain, another seriously wounded. Others, including prominent names in the government, reportedly are marked for death.

The Inter-American Peace Force, mostly U.S. troops, is to leave this month. Its evacuation began in July when the men still here are due to leave by Sept. 20.

There is speculation that leftists fear the evacuation of the troops will leave a vacuum in the armed forces, and stirring up fresh agitation in the force President Joaquin Balaguer will require the foreign troops to remain longer.

The Dominican armed forces either were unable or unwilling to stop the violence.

WHEAT CROP EXPECTED OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian farmers will harvest a record wheat crop of 759,333,000 bushels this year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics forecast Friday.

SEATTLE (AP)—West Coast Airlines said Friday it broke most of its system-wide travel records in August, marking the 32nd consecutive month in which the carrier set a record.

The air-line reported six stations exceeded their previous all-time highs in August, when it carried 65,671 passengers. The record stations were Seattle, with 12,723 Spokane, 7,181 Salt Lake City, 4,628, Baltimore, 4,191, Calgary, 656 and Tacoma, 641. Portland was second high in the system with 10,674 but it was not a record.
